Get business users collaborating without installing software

Document Automation for Business-Critical Correspondence

CM Complete On-Demand

If your business users are demanding faster turnaround on changes and more control of dynamic personalised messages in transactional documents, you are not alone. But satisfying these demands can often involve a lengthy process of acquiring and installing software that taxes overloaded IT resources and frustrates the business users you serve. Now, with CM Complete On-Demand you can turn out applications as needed, using our secure hosted service. Give business users command and control over variable message content and bring in a new level of capability in delivering effective, dynamic, multichannel messages to customers.

Dynamic Document Publishing

CM Complete On-Demand offers web-based workflows for business users to manage variable message content and provides hosted lifecycle management for enterprise document templates. The solution is feature rich, with options for custom web interfaces, integrated content repositories, version control, integrated document composition and output routing, on-demand archiving, and more.

Secure Hosted Service

CM Complete On-Demand is a hosted service that eliminates lengthy overhead in acquiring and installing an in-house solution and allows enterprise business units and their print and e-delivery service providers to collaborate "in the cloud", with all the security and benefits of an in house installed solution.

Multi-Client Web Admin

Web-based administrative capabilities provide flexible, direct management of your client's applications. If you have multiple customers or in-house business units, you can establish separate URL's for each, then configure unique applications in the completely segregated environments. For each client, you have full control to establish user groups, permissions, and approval workflows, as well as to assign customer-level administrators.

Branded Web Portals

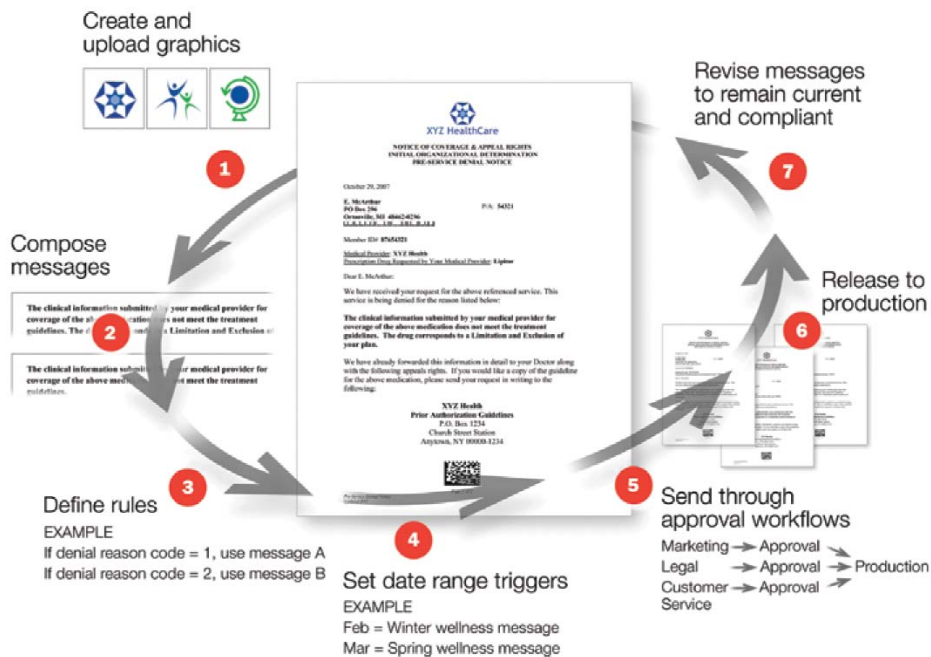

Each customer web portal is fully branded and customised to meet the needs of targeted business workflows and differing production, printing, and e-delivery scenarios.

Enterprise Appeal

Based on Cheque-Mates' leading CM Complete solution suite, CM Complete On-Demand is well-suited to enterprise correspondence and transpromo applications where getting a solution deployed quickly and getting brand controlled message management in the hands of business users is a primary goal.

Get Business Users Collaborating Without Installing Software

Web-Based Workflows

Web-based workflows provide business users with permission controlled access to message blocks. The web browser interface is designed for business users who want command and control of message content, but don't want to be slowed down with technical features or a steep learning curve.

Online Content Management

Business users can manage content, compose and revise messages, define rules, set date-range triggers, send revised content through approval workflows, activate messages for production, and more - all on demand, as needed, from a web browser. The system has an integrated image repository that stores the image elements available for use in variable document messages. Each image can be referenced in any number of message blocks and in any number of templates. The image manager tracks image usage in templates and provides a web-based management tool for uploading, browsing, and revising image content.

Sophisticated Message Rules

Business users not only set message content, but also use easy dialog boxes to set up the business rules that determine who gets which version of a message. Database driven targeted message rules are the key to getting the right message to the right person. CM Complete's easy-to-use interface ensures that message rules are both intuitive to define and thoroughly sophisticated for powerful business logic processing.

Easy Change Management

Putting dynamic message management in the hands of business users and bridging the gap to production with automated web based workflows ensures that necessary changes can be handled quickly and easily. Web-based previews and approval workflows speed change implementation.

Version Control

Integrated change tracking provides version management and a complete audit trail. Each fully approved and released version of a template is saved, making it easy for the production team to roll back to a previous version, should it be necessary.

Fast Application Deployment

With its fully hosted service architecture, CM Complete On-Demand is ready to go when you are. Start with a pilot project or deploy an urgently needed application with minimal IT resources. Turning on the service is no problem, and we can even help you with strategic planning and deployment services to get that important first project or critical application up and running smoothly.
